

A cartoon illustration of a grey rabbit with large ears and a pink nose, pointing its right index finger towards a lion. The lion has a large, shaggy brown mane and a yellowish face, looking back at the rabbit with a serious expression. They are standing in a lush green forest with trees and bushes. In the foreground, there are several grey, moss-covered stone blocks.

Classic Tales

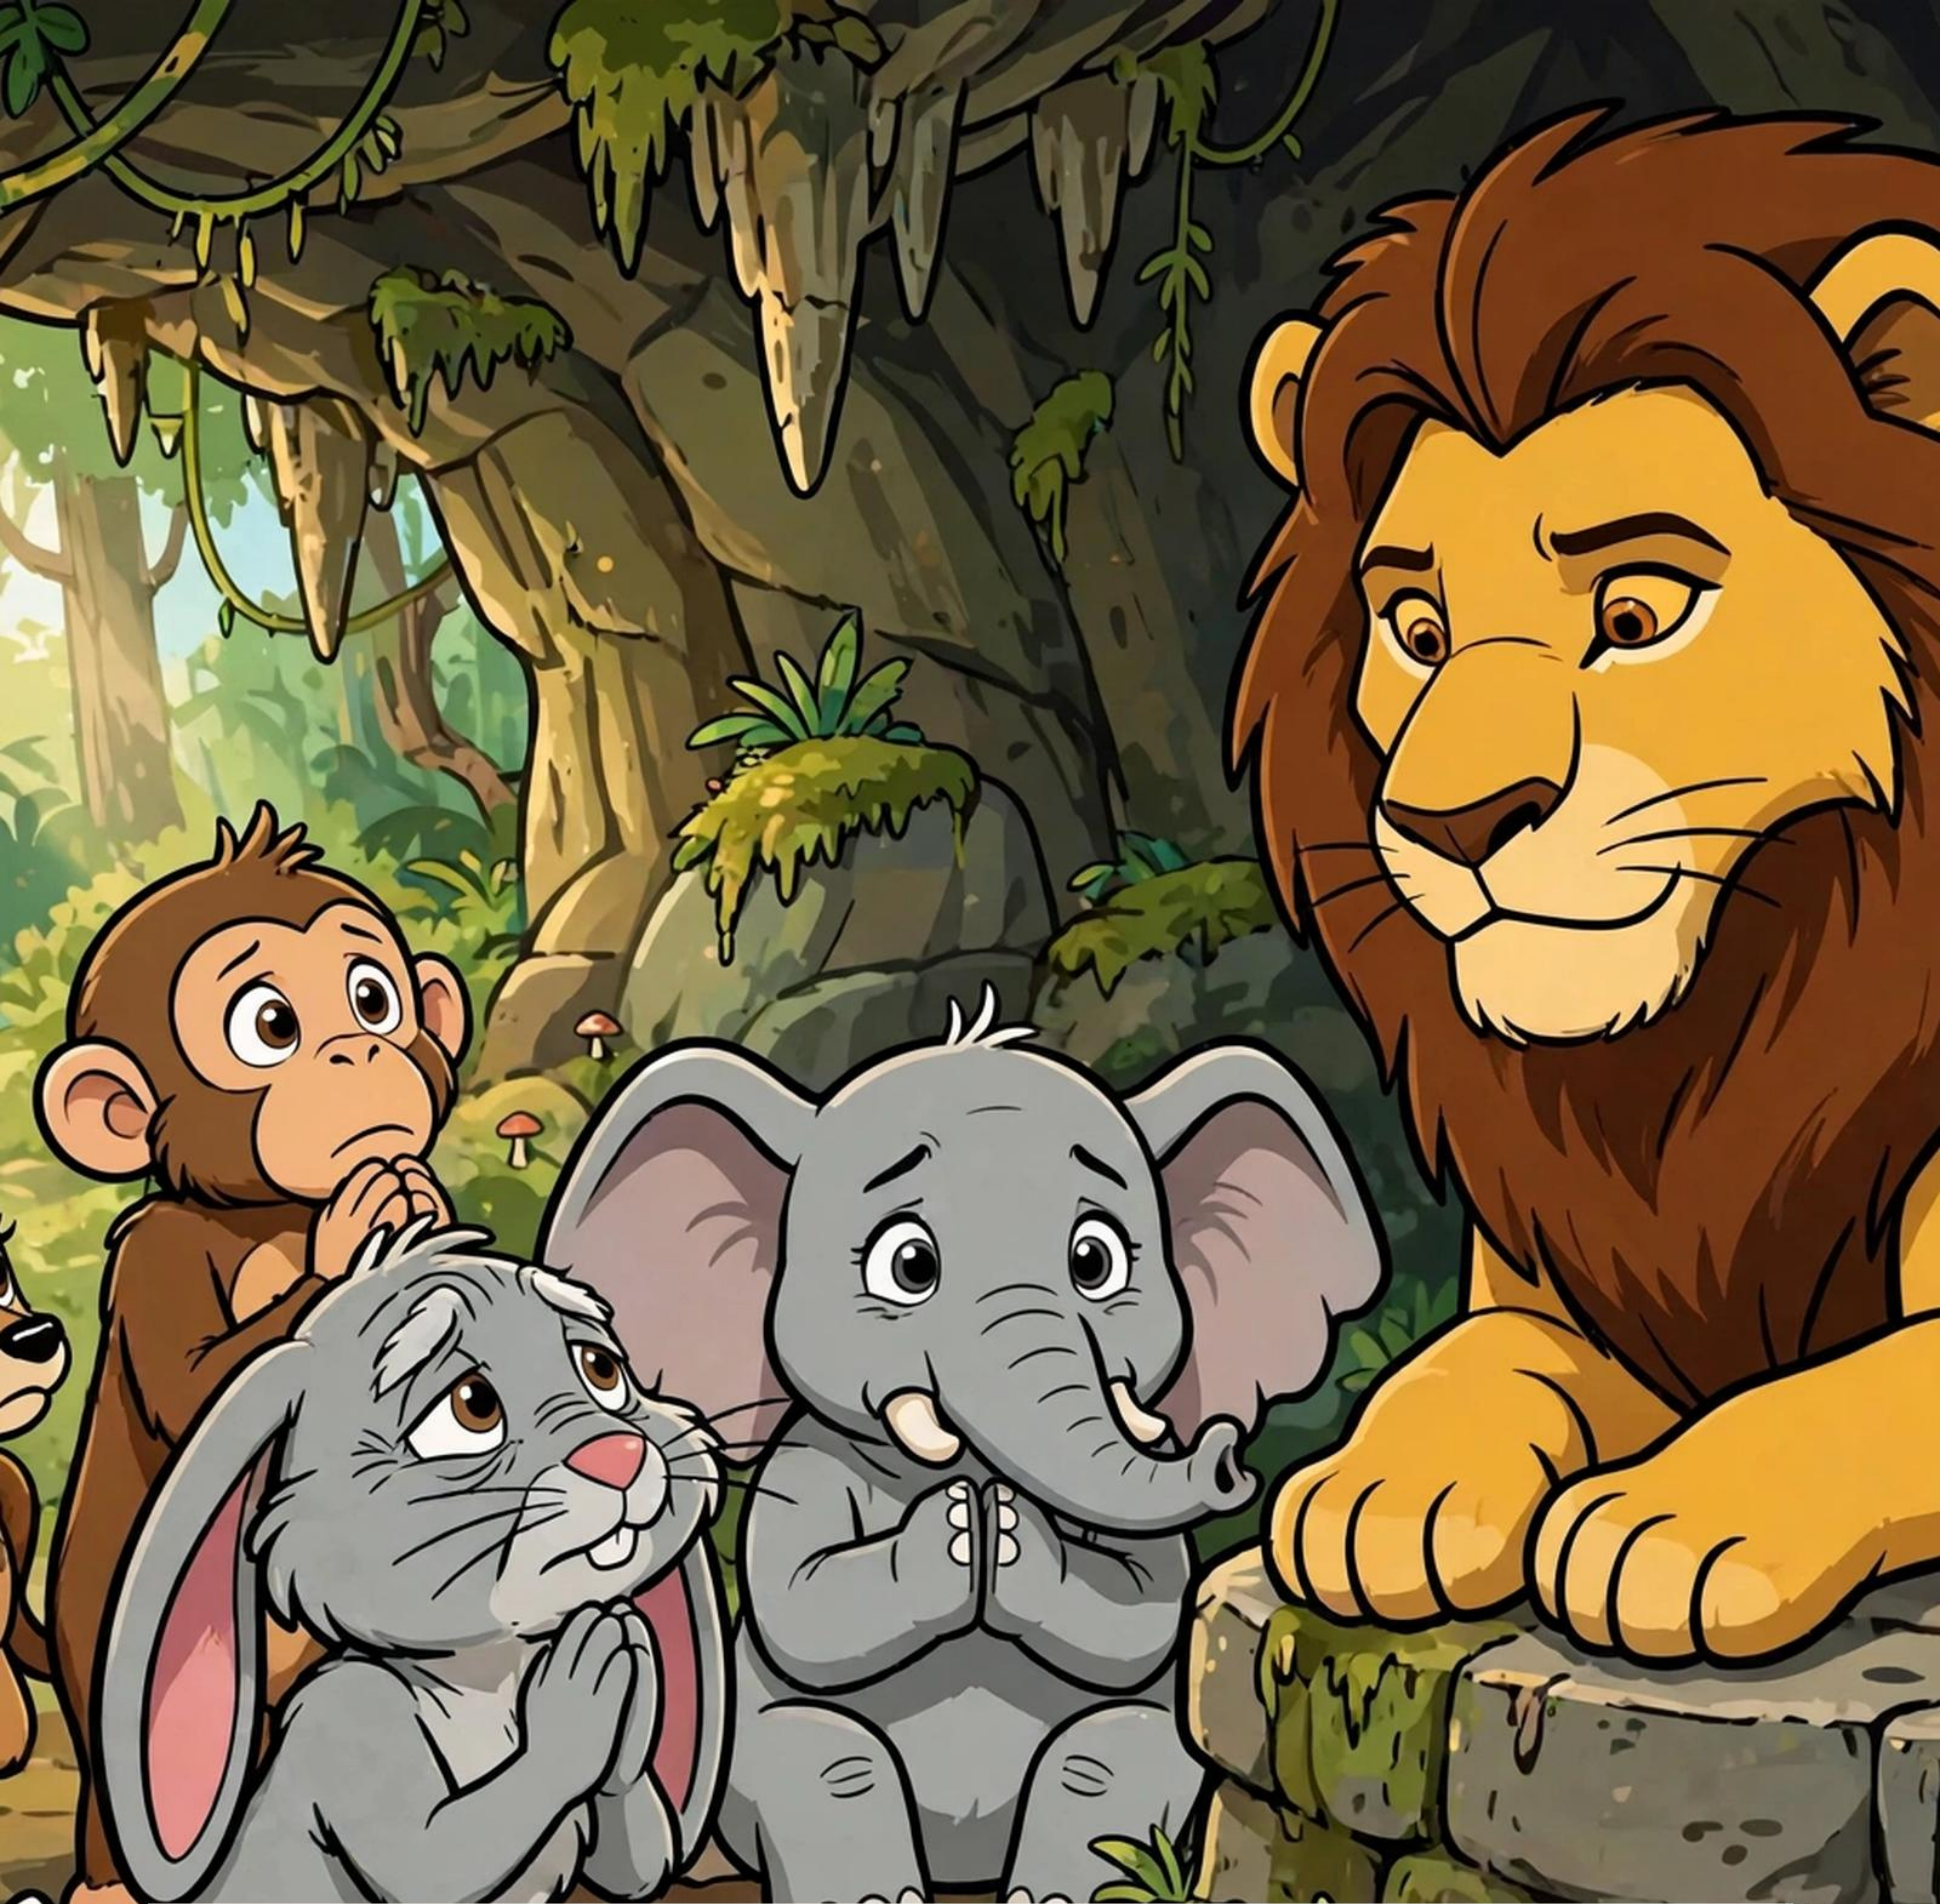

The Clever Rabbit and the Lion

KIDS BOOK VIDEOS

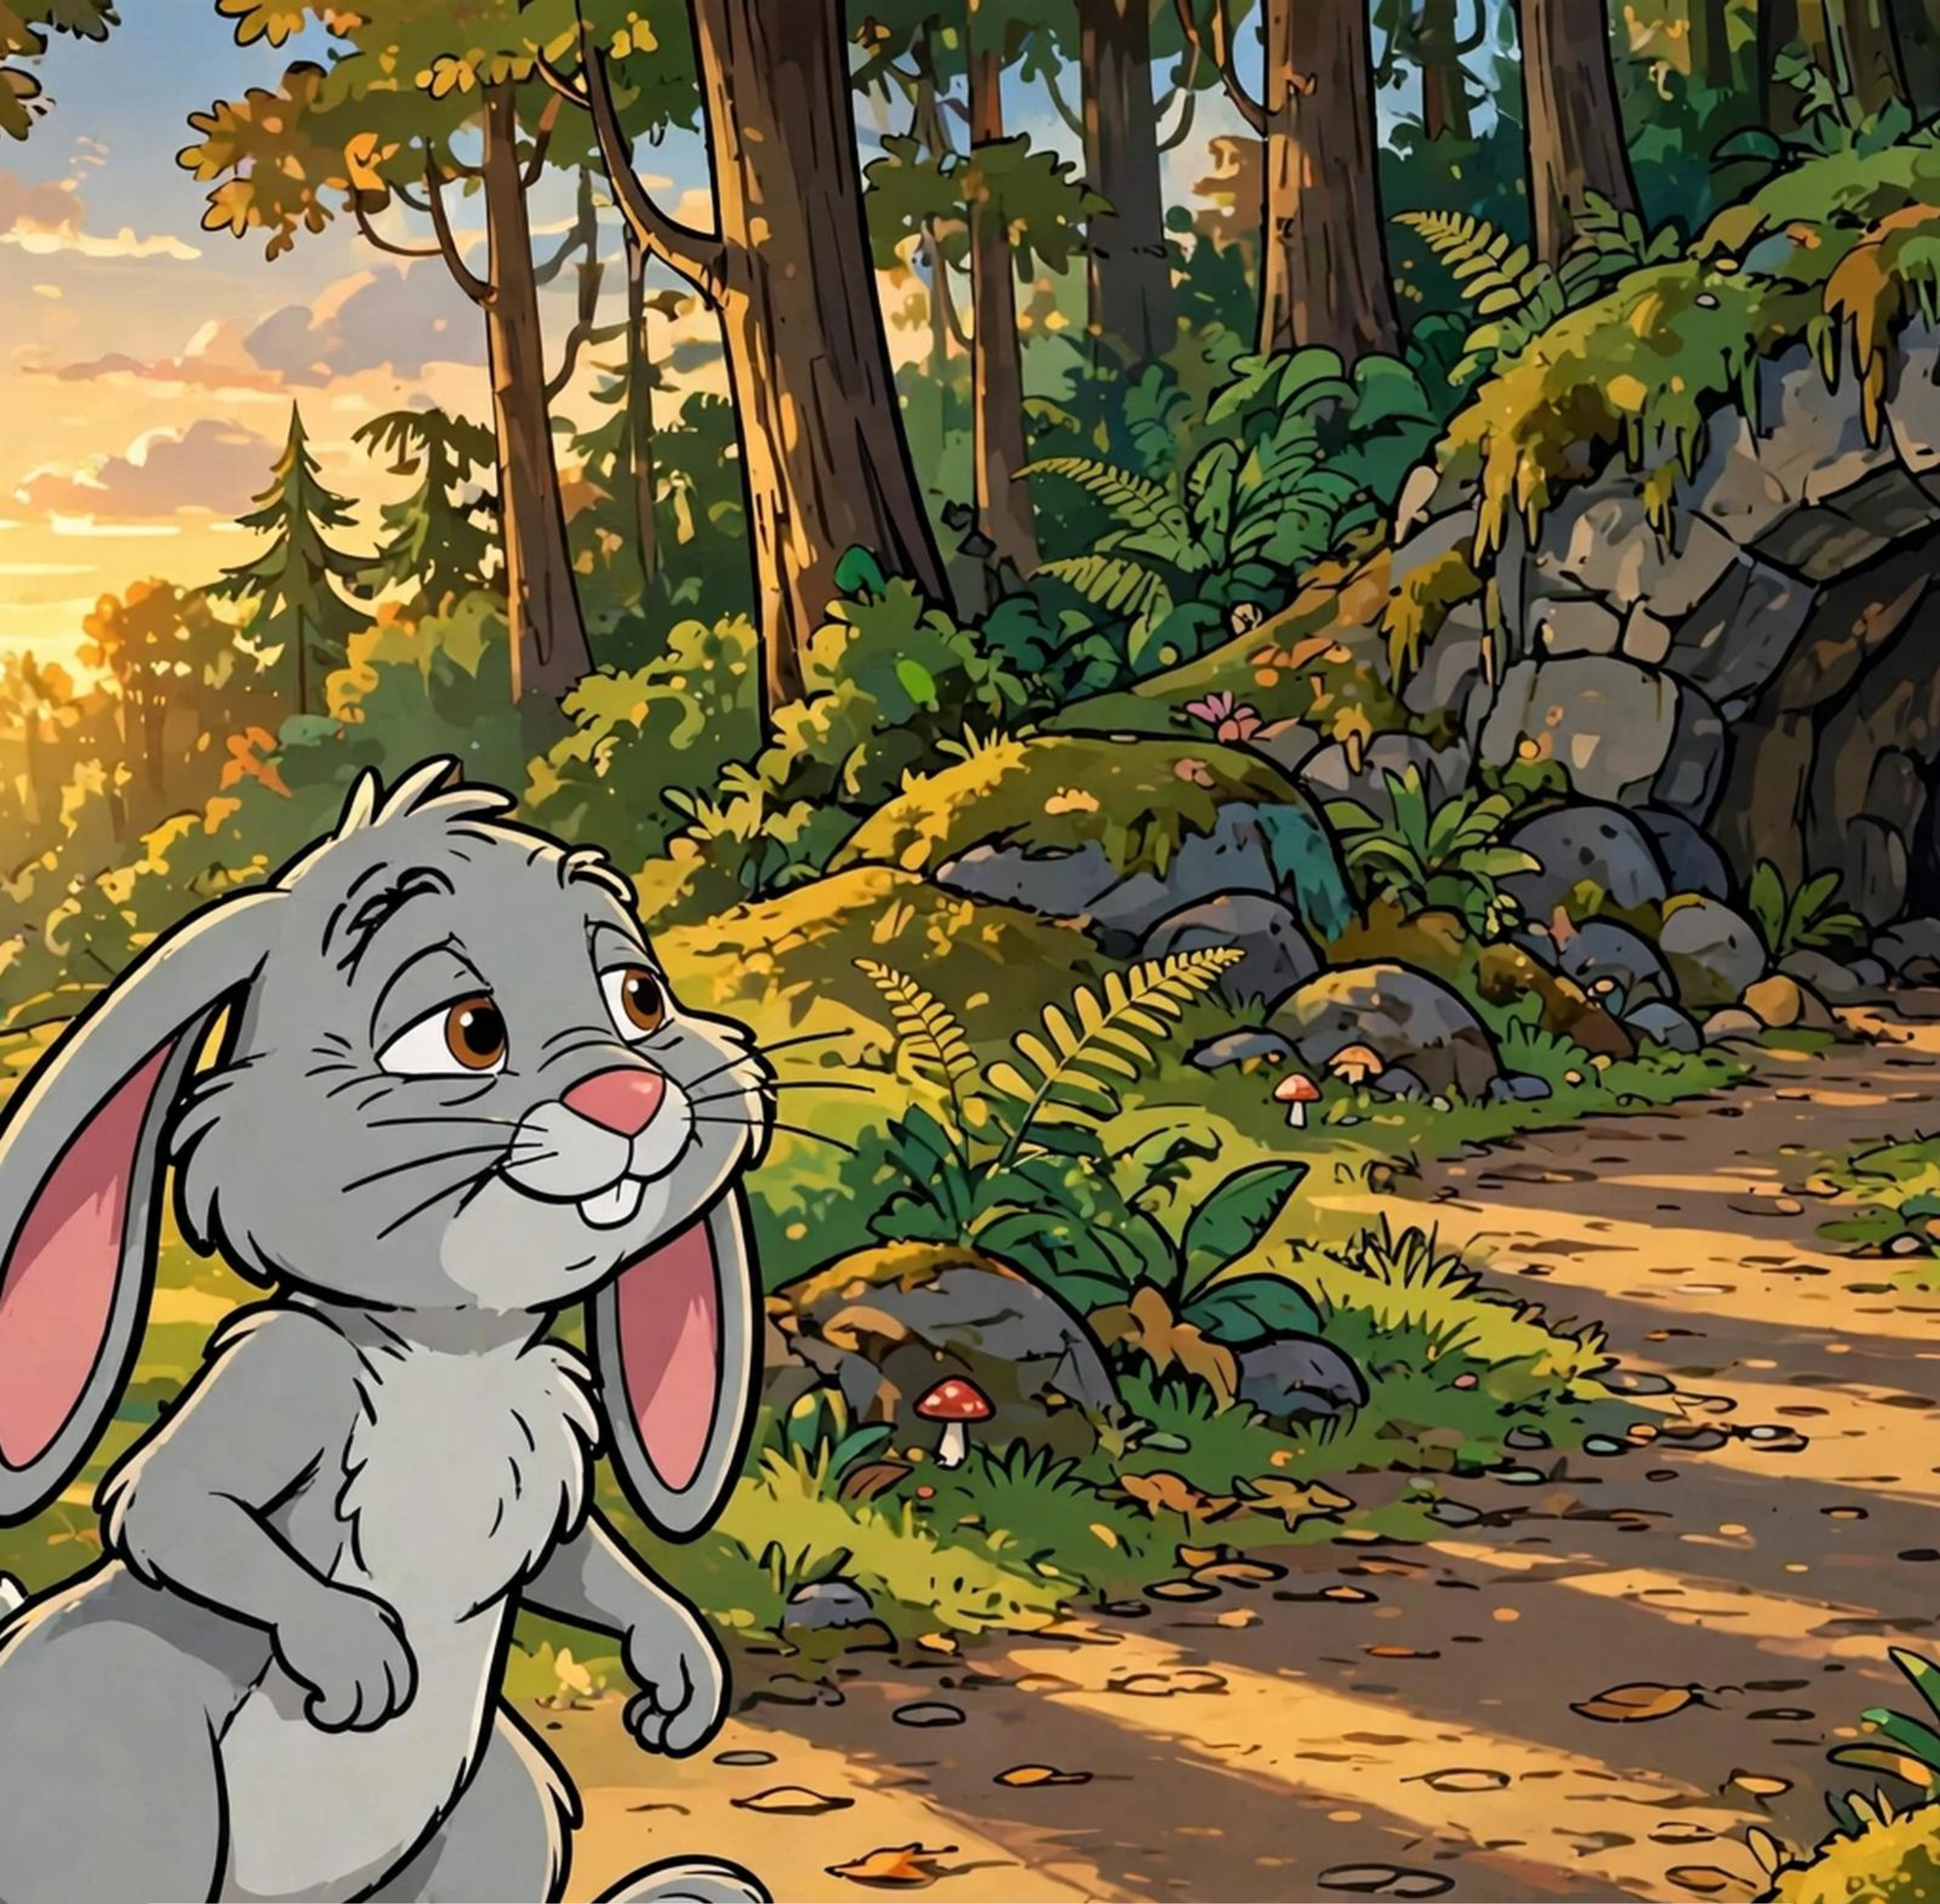

In a big green forest lived a very cruel lion.

Every day, he hunted and hunted. All the animals of the forest were frightened.

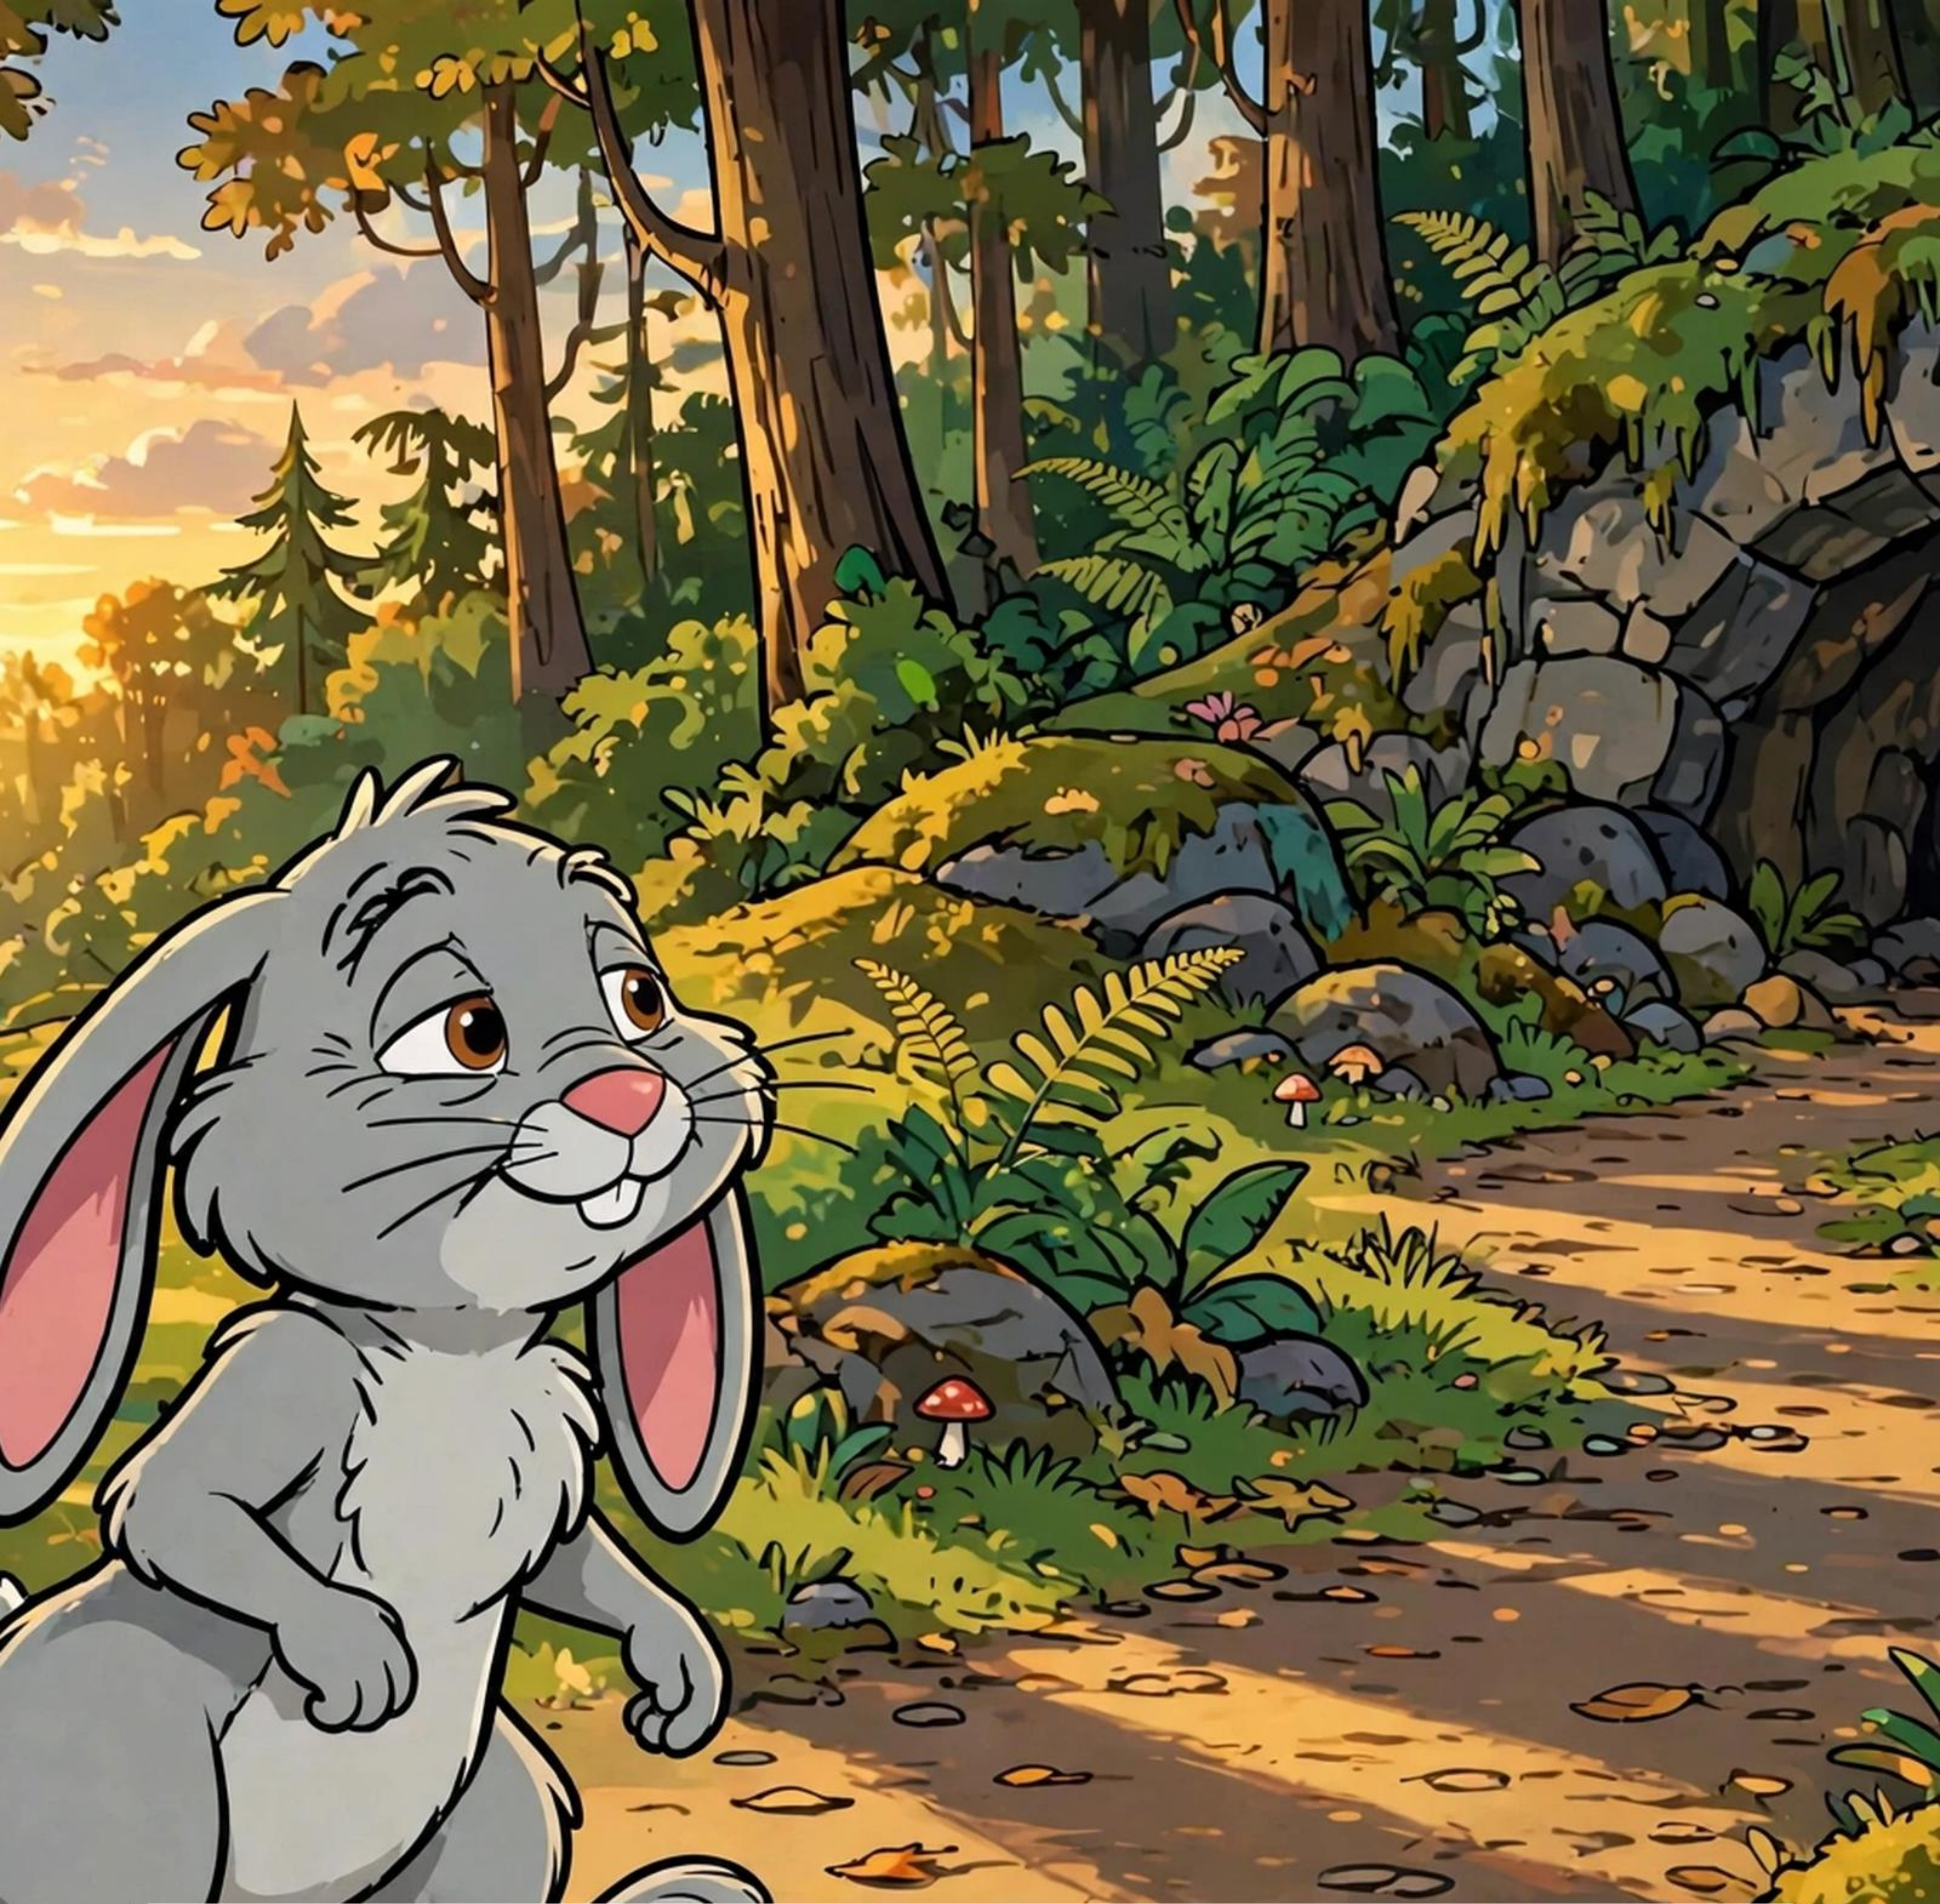

One day, all the animals went to the lion together.

"O King," they said, "please do not go hunting every day. We will send one animal to your cave every day instead."

The lion agreed. And so, every day, one animal went to his cave.

Then one day, it was the turn of an old, old rabbit named Remy.

Remy hopped along slowly, slowly — and reached the cave very, very late, on purpose.

The lion roared with anger. "ROAR! Why are you so late?"

Remy trembled and said, "O King, on the way I met another lion! He says HE is the king of this forest!"

"What?" The lion's eyes turned red with rage. "Show me where he is!"

So Remy led the lion to a deep, dark well.

"O King," said Remy, pointing down, "that lion lives inside this well!"

The lion peered into the well. In the water, he saw his own face looking back!

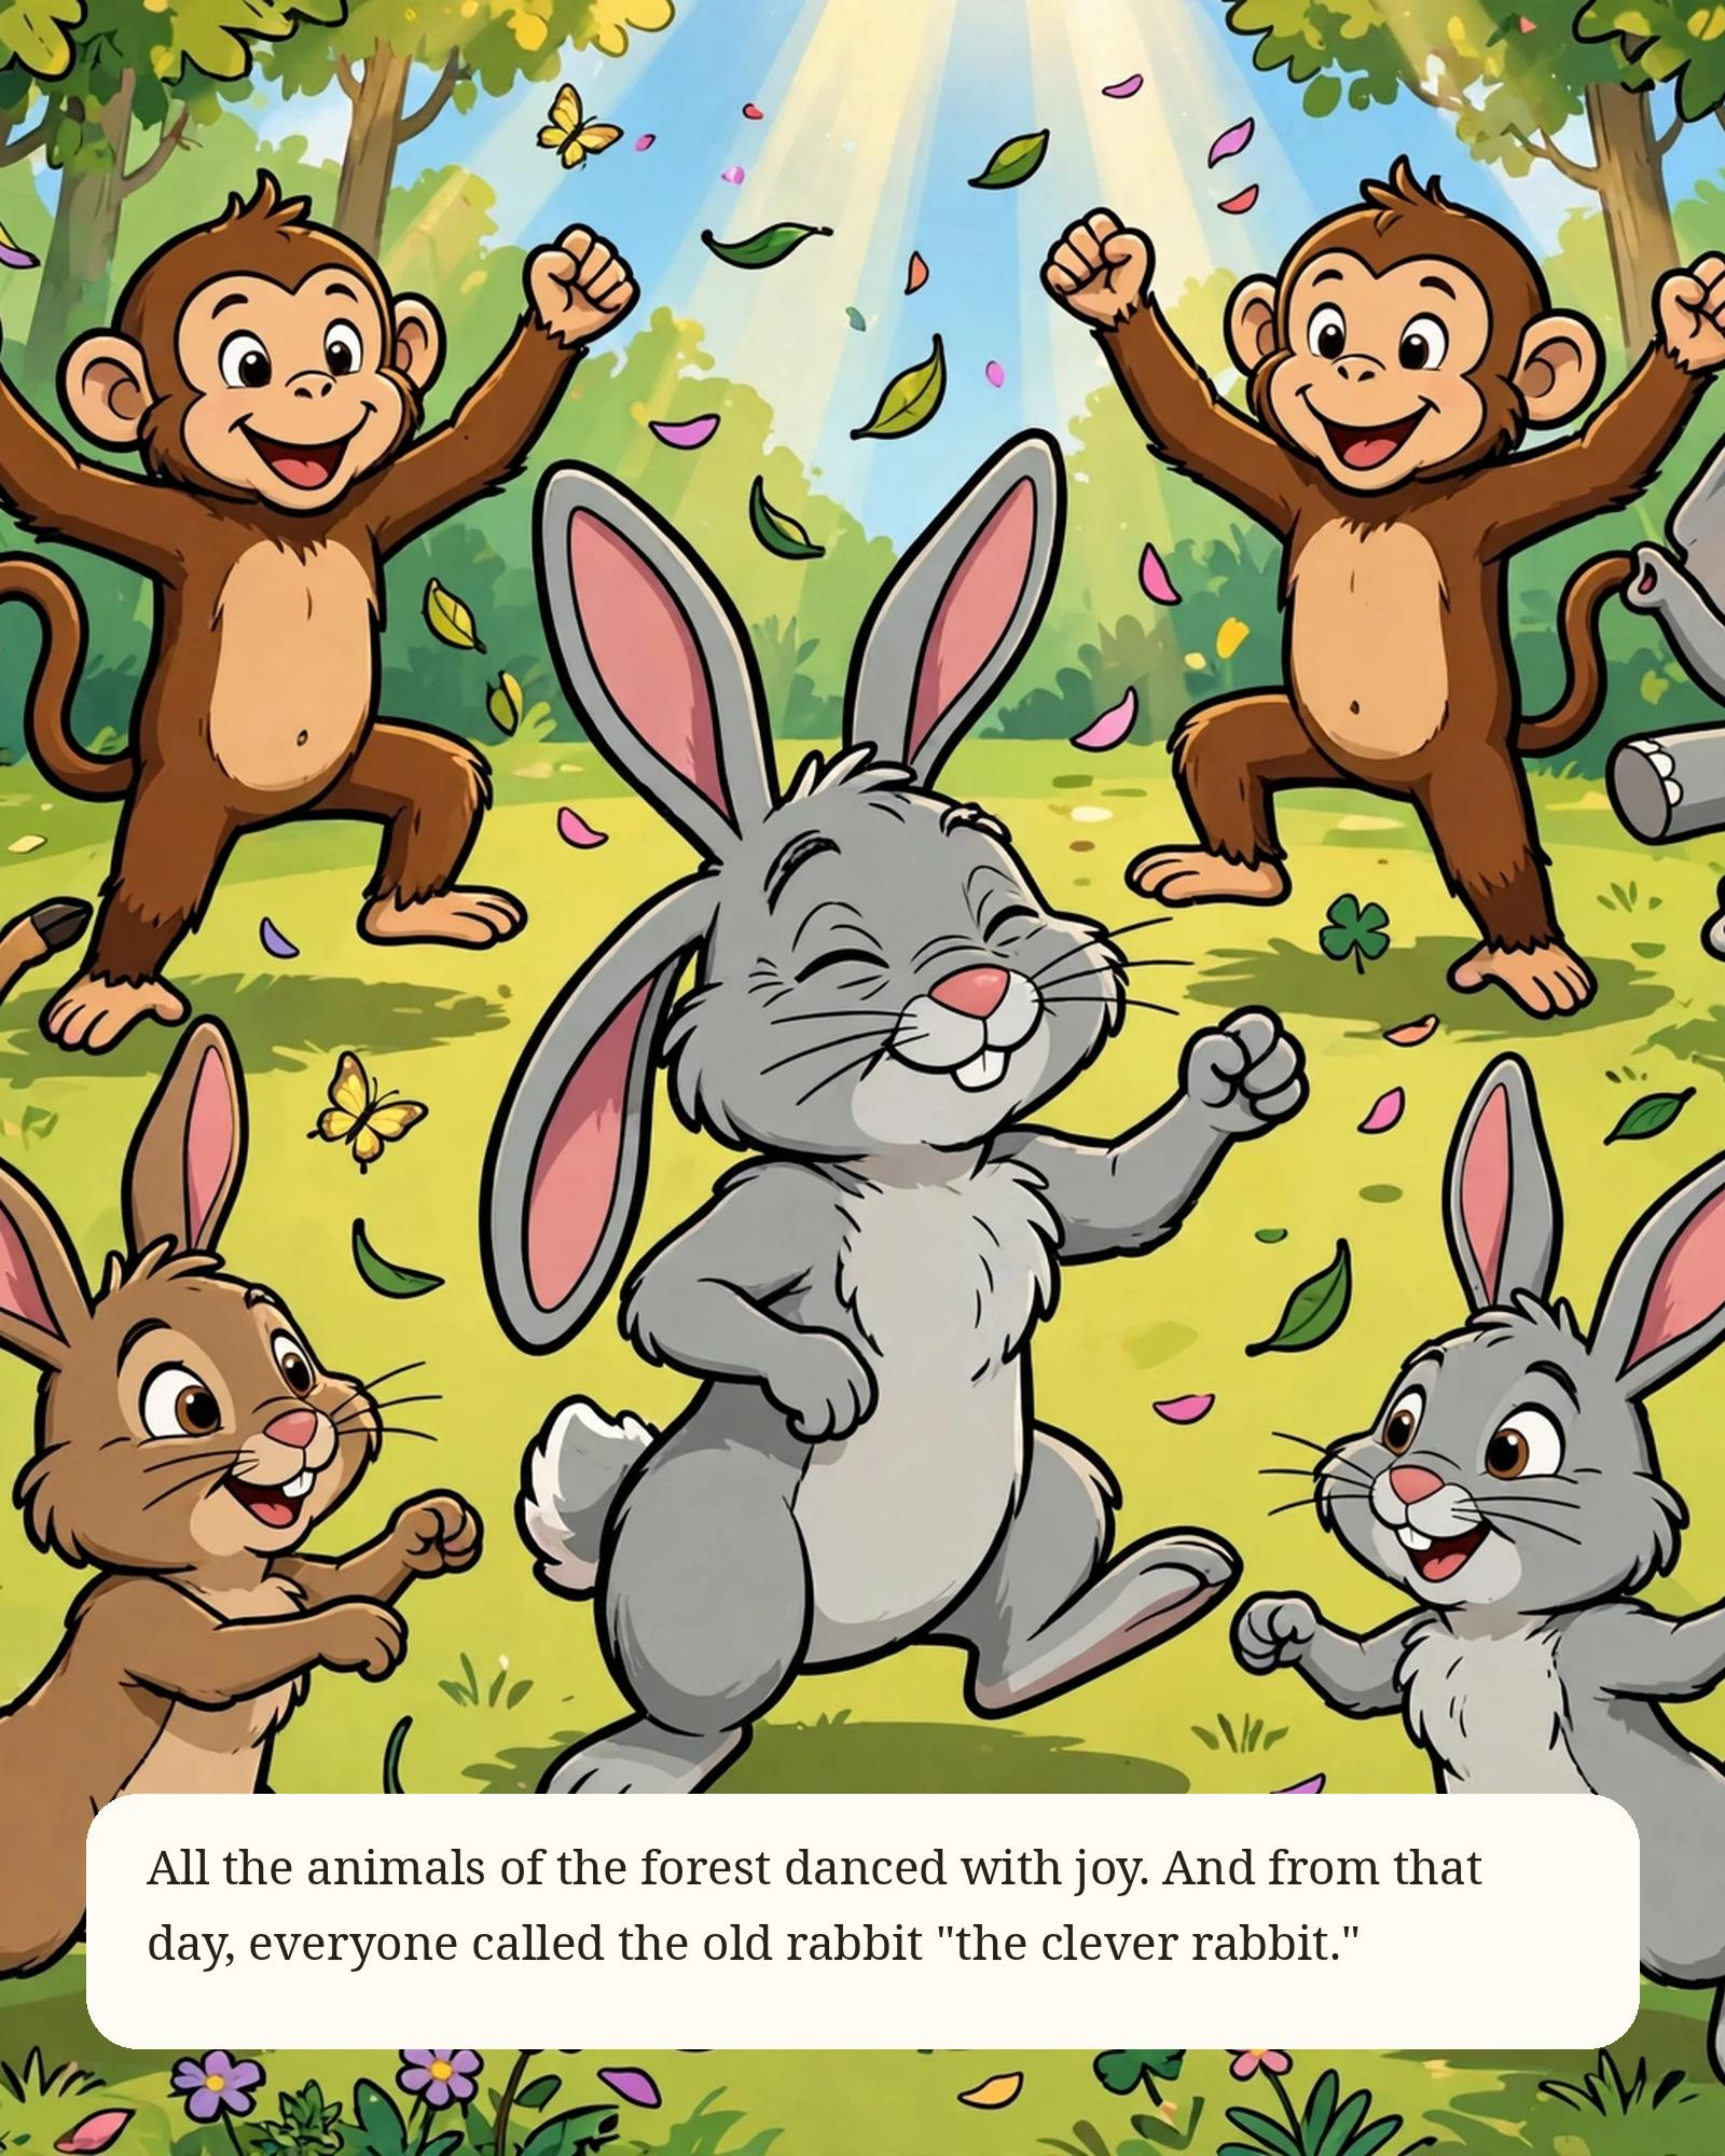

"ROAR!" growled the lion. And from inside the well came an echo — "ROAR!"

"He is copying me!" The lion went mad with anger. With a mighty roar, he LEAPED into the well — SPLASH!

It was a very deep well. The lion fell in and could never, ever climb out again.

All the animals of the forest danced with joy. And from that day, everyone called the old rabbit "the clever rabbit."

A clever mind is stronger than a strong body.

The End

