Bruno and the Rumbling Sky

KIDS BOOK VIDEOS

Bruno was a small bear cub who lived in a cozy den with his mama. One evening, the sky turned gray. Then came a big sound. RUMBLE!

Bruno felt scared. His tummy went tight, and his ears went flat. "Mama!" he squeaked.

Mama Bear came quickly and gave Bruno a warm hug. "I hear it too," she said. "Thunder is just the sky's big drum."

Bruno blinked.

"Thunder is just the sky's big drum," Mama said again.

Bruno breathed in slowly.

"Thunder is just the sky's big drum," Mama said one more time.

Bruno felt a little less scared.

Then the rain came. Pitter, patter, pitter, patter. It drummed on the roof of the den.

"Can we count the rumbles?" Mama asked.

Bruno nodded.

RUMBLE! "One," said Bruno.

The next rumble was softer. "Two," said Bruno.

The next one was very soft. "Three," said Bruno.

Each rumble was farther away. Bruno felt brave now. He was still a small cub — but he was a brave small cub.

Mama made warm milk, and they sipped it together. The milk was sweet and warm, warming Bruno from his nose to his toes.

The rain sang its soft song. Pitter, patter, pitter, patter. Bruno listened to the rain, and it sounded like a lullaby now. He was not scared anymore.

Bruno yawned a big bear yawn and snuggled into his warm bed of leaves. Mama hummed a sleepy tune. The storm was going to sleep too.

Bruno closed his eyes. He was safe and warm. He was brave and loved.

Mama stayed close all night. She hummed until the rain stopped. Goodnight, Bruno.

Being brave means feeling scared
— and staying cozy anyway.
