

Classic Tales

Chicken Little

KIDS BOOK VIDEOS

One breezy morning, Chicken Little — a tiny fluffy chick named Kukku — was pecking corn under the big oak tree.

BONK! An acorn fell from the tree and bopped her right on the head. "Oh no!" cried Kukku. "The sky is falling! The sky is falling!"

"I must run and tell the King!" And off she ran, as fast as her little legs could go.

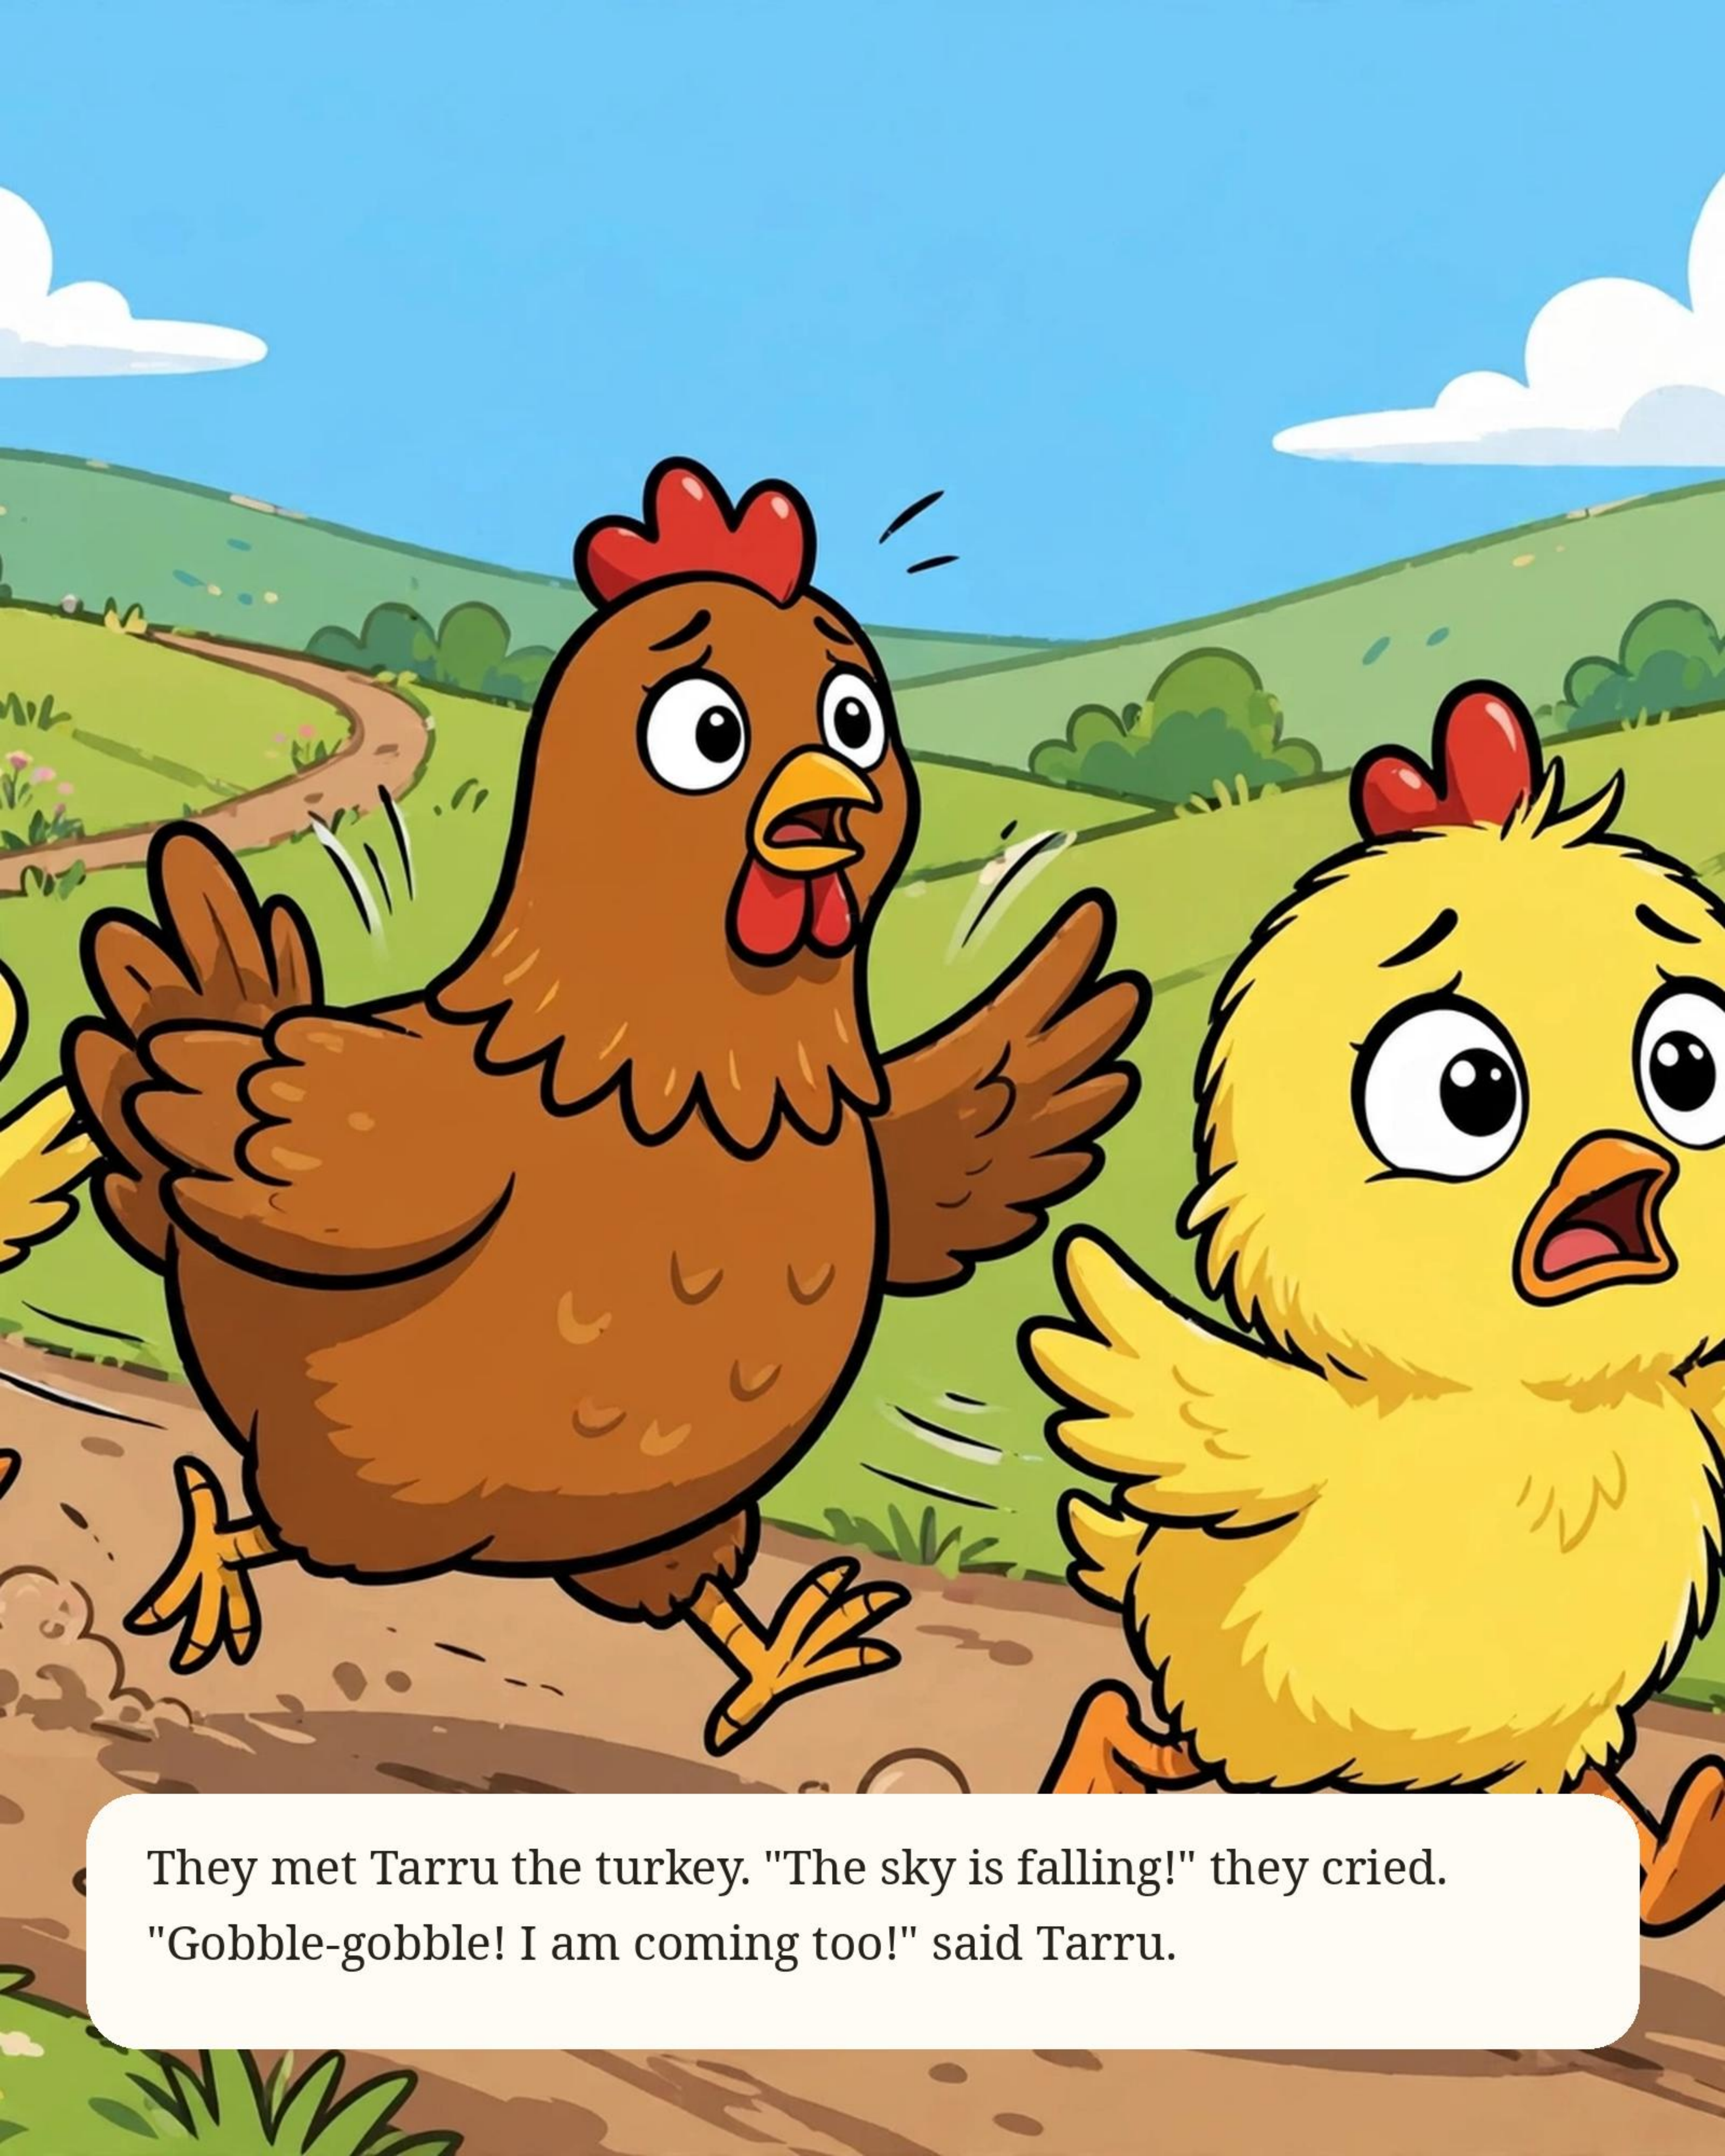

On the way she met Chikki the hen. "The sky is falling!" cried Kukku. "Oh my!" said Chikki. "I will come with you!" So they ran together.

They met Dabbu the duck. "The sky is falling!" they cried. "Oh my!" said Dabbu. "I will come too!" So all three ran together.

They met Guggu the goose. "The sky is falling!" they cried. "Oh my!" said Guggu, and joined the march.

They met Tarru the turkey. "The sky is falling!" they cried.
"Gobble-gobble! I am coming too!" said Tarru.

At last they met Foxy Loxy, the sly fox. "Where are you running?" he asked with a too-sweet smile. "To tell the King the sky is falling!" they all cried.

"Follow me!" said Foxy Loxy. "I know a shortcut to the King!"
And he led them straight to his dark, dark den.

Inside it was cold and shadowy. But Kukku's sharp little eyes saw the fox's trap just in time. "STOP!" she peeped. "This is not the King's palace — RUN!"

Away they dashed — flap, flap, flap! — right out of the den, and all the way to the King's palace.

The kind King laughed gently. "Dear me! That was only an acorn." And everyone laughed and laughed — and shared a picnic under the oak tree.

Don't panic at a bump — look up, check, and think before you run.

The End

